FUEL THE SEASON

Turn performance into sponsor money.

Not a website builder. Not a template. Not an agency.

The athlete pitch, rebuilt for underfunded competitors.

Talent doesn't lose. Presentation does.

A driver spends €15,000 chasing a season — then pitches sponsors with a Word doc and a logo on a shirt.

Athletes don't lose sponsorship for a lack of talent. They lose because they can't package their value commercially. They have the results. They can't sell the story.

How athletes pitch sponsors today.

01 Ugly PDF media kits & dead Instagram bios

02 "Logo on a shirt" offers — no measurable value

03 No clear ask, no packages, no follow-up

04 Parents losing evenings to amateur marketing

05 Agencies charging €1k–5k they can't afford

The money's on the table. Nobody can reach it.

Fuel the Season.

We turn an athlete's results, story and funding goal into a sponsor-ready website, media kit and outreach campaign — built to raise the money to compete.

Site	Packages	Targets
+ PDF media kit	+ outreach messages	+ follow-up system

→ The athlete pitch, rebuilt for the sponsor era.

Not a builder. Not a template. Not an agency.

- Templates still make you write the story, set the price, send it.
- Marketplaces wait for sponsors to find you.
- Agencies cost €1k–5k.

THE WEDGE · A DATA-BACKED ROI REPORT AFTER EVERY EVENT

Sponsorship in sport is a black box. We quantify it. Agency-quality, athlete-built, a tenth of the price.

Built it on myself. Here's the receipt.

Théo Stipa — Nantes, 22 — the engineer in the cockpit. Came to racing through science and precision, podium in both championships as a rookie, building the analytics that prove sponsor ROI.

From thin intake to sponsor-ready in minutes. Proof, not promises.

Intake → campaign in minutes.

01 Athlete fills a 10-min intake — results, story, goal, reach, assets.

02 AI generates the full campaign.

03 Founder review — the quality gate.

04 Live site + PDF + outreach delivered.

Next.js + AI generation + instant deploy — built to scale to self-serve.

Start where the pain is sharpest.

Beachhead: young motorsport drivers, rental → owner kart. High cost, sponsorship near-mandatory, weak current materials — and a founder who lives it (FRKC grid, P2 in his championship).

Expansion: the same engine → swimmers, triathletes, combat sports, climbers, sailing — every underfunded individual athlete who has to sell their story.

I start where I have an edge. The engine serves every underfunded athlete.

Selling this weekend, not "someday."

Capture (build at night): real product + example kits ready, intake live, pre-sell so cash lands in the sell window.

Sell (warm-first): 17 named prospects from my own grid + parent channels; free-preview DMs → €49 to keep, direct ask for hot leads.

~94% gross margin — and it holds at scale.

- Per kit: AI ~€0.20 (≈0.3% of price); all-in COGS ~ €1–1.75 incl. Stripe.
- At 100 / 1,000 / 10,000 users, margin stays ~94% — static pages, AI only on generation.

Biggest variable cost is Stripe, not AI. The constraint at scale is CAC & support — never infra.

From hand-built to self-serve.

P0 This weekend — Wizard-of-Oz: real product, manual delivery, real sales.

P1 Weeks 1–4 — semi-automated pipeline, <30 min/kit.

P2 Months 2–3 — self-serve MVP + subscriptions. Founder out of the loop.

P3 Months 4–6 — the sponsorship OS: outreach tracker, page analytics, follow-up, multi-sport.

P4 Month 6+ — club/academy B2B2C + federation partnerships.

Raise your season.

Every talented athlete is underfunded for one reason: they couldn't sell their story. Fuel the Season fixes that — this weekend, for less than a set of tyres.

Build the athlete pitch. Raise the season.
